

From: Robert Baumgartner
Sent: Sunday, March 20, 2022 10:52 PM
To: Dev Team
Subject: Phone call from Jim Grey, Library of London

DO NOT FORWARD

Jim called to talk about our prototype. Here is what he said:

The good part: We did an impressive job with the prototype. Their management team really liked the data table and the UI style.

The not-so-good-part: They are not convinced we can implement the backend. They heard rumors about weak Postgres skills. I told him, that this is certainly not true. In the end, we agreed that our team will provide an extended version of the prototype. This time complete with server implementation and database. We haven't agreed on a specific date because I wanted to talk to you guys first, but my guess is any date beyond the end of next week is not acceptable.

I have summarized the points in the attachment.

We'll meet on Wednesday, next week, at 7:50 AM. Usual place.

Regards

---

Attachment

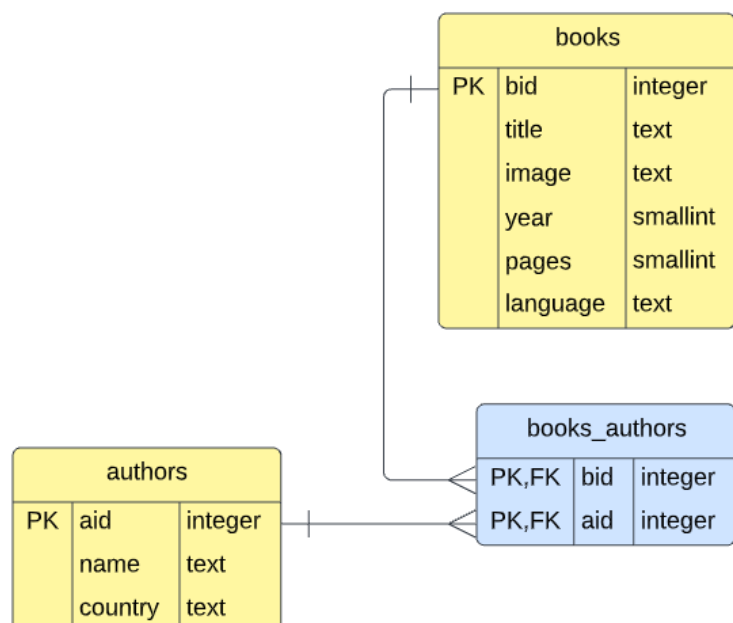

Summary of required extensions (see also screenshots):

Server:

- MVC server structure.
- REST API.
- Handling of errors and not found routes.
- Database file books.sql is provided.

Client:

- Changed columns in data table.
- Enhanced Dialog with error checking.
- Read, delete, update calls are using the database.

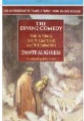

client x +

localhost:8080

Books 'n More

HOME ABOUT

Browse all our books!

ID	Image	Title	Author	Pages	Actions
1		Things Fall Apart	Chinua Achebe	209
2		Fairy tales	Hans Christian Andersen	784
3		The Divine Comedy	Dante Alighieri	928
4		The Epic Of Gilgamesh	Unknown	160
5		The Book Of Job	Unknown	176

client x +

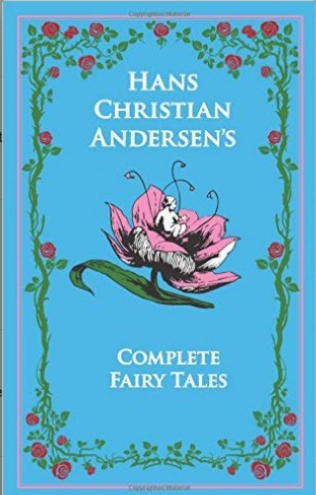

localhost:8080

Books 'n More

HOME ABOUT

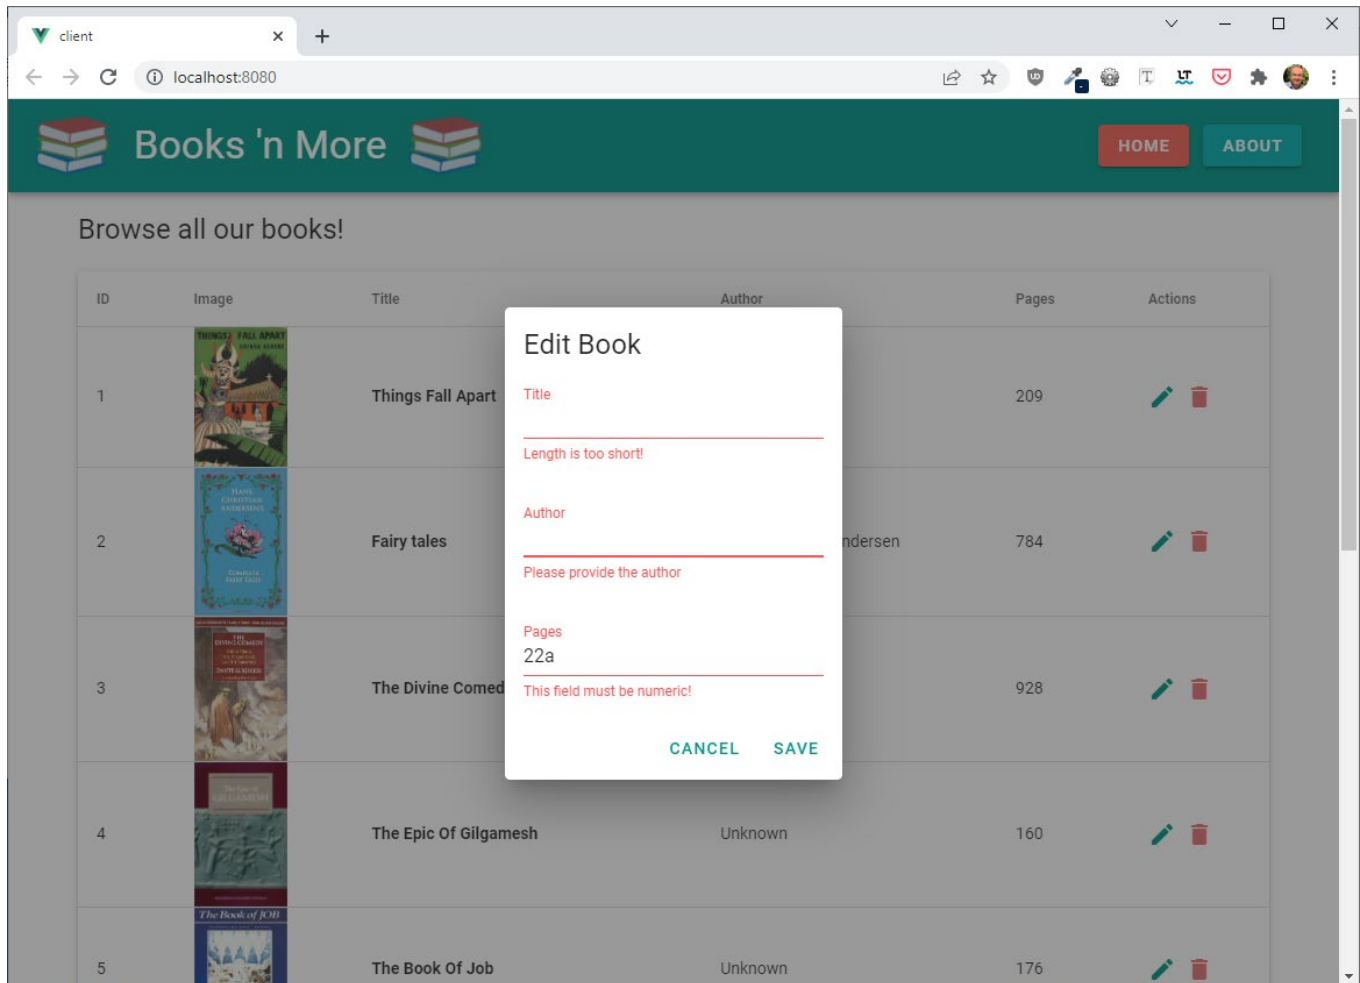

Browse all our books!

ID	Image	Title	Pages	Actions
1		Things Fall Apart	209
2		Fairy tales	784
3		The Divine Comedy	928
4		The Epic Of Gilgamesh	160
5		The Book Of Job	176

CLOSE

For checks use: <https://vuetifyjs.com/en/components/forms/#validation-with-submit-26-clear>

Checks:

- All fields are required.
- Name of author must contain at least 3 characters and less the 20 characters.
- Title of book must contain at least 5 characters and less the 50 characters.
- Pages must be numeric and less then 2000.